

ABSTRACT

The invention may be broadly conceptualized as an approach in which an oven (122) receives a plurality of program recipes from a network that are executed by scanning with a scanner (1216) a symbol and associating the scanned symbol with one of the plurality of program recipes while keeping a real-time clock (1224) synchronized and correctly set by receiving period time synchronization messages.